THE WOMAN OF IT.
When her stomach's growin' hungry,
It's a chunk of bread—no more.
And she chews it by the greasy
kitchen sink.
And she draws herself some water in a cup he's used before.
And she warms the coffee, leavin'
for to drink.

But when he is a-sittin' hungry, then
the tablecloth comes down.
And the Sunday chow's fetched to hold the bait.

And the mashed potatoes buttered and
the beef done crispy brown.
And the steamin' soup set beside his plate.

When her legs are sore and breaky
from a million jobs she's done,
Then she weeps alone as though her heart is broke.

But when he's a trifle weary then she's
up and on the run.

For his pillow and his slippers and
his smoke,

When she can't go no further, and she shoulders sick ached.

She will tell him just to set the table
near.

And she'll reach out for her tonic with her hand upon her head.

And she'll swallow it together with a tear.

But when he's a trifle weakly, then she smooths his precious hair.
With her woman's eyes staring full
of fight.

And if she was dyin' weary, why she wouldn't even dare

Sleep a minute through the never-endin' night.

And the achin' shamus' pity is, she loves to groan and moan.

And she'll never take a gentleman's advice.

For her service often burns him when he longs to be alone.

But the pith of all her love is sacrif-

ition.

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Laura Luter and Mr. Roy Matthews was announced at a meeting of the W. L. C. Club Saturday at the home of Mrs. Leo Bluntzner on King street. It is one of the pretty customs of the Club for the last bride to announce the next engagement but the happy announcement was quite a surprise to the club members. A three-course luncheon was served in the dining room which was attractively decorated; chiffon streamers hung from the chandelier to the corners of the table. Glided mats were the plate favors and bore the announcement and the date, November twelfth. A doll, in bridal attire adorned the center of the table and small bags of rice were the souvenirs. Congratulations were showered on the bride elect, who has a host of friends in the city. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Luter have resided in Corpus Christi for many years. Miss Luter is a member of La Bella Club, and W. L. C. Club, and is an active worker in church affairs. Mr. Matthews, although a comparative newcomer in the city, has made many friends here. Those present were: Misses Laura Luter, Gladys Freeman, Mabel Roell, Florence Olsen, Minnie Shales, Irene Hill, Gregory (Uncle), Zula Hill, Mendez Henry, Luter, Leo Bluntzner, A. J. Galloway, Claude Mayfield, William Ellington.
